§ 151.026 TEMPORARY USES, ACTIVITIES, AND STRUCTURES.

(5) Temporary storage in a portable shipping container. Temporary storage in a portable shipping container shall be permitted to serve an existing principal or accessory use, subject to the following standards:

(a) Residential uses. The overnight placement of any moving and/or storage structure, whether temporary or permanent and regardless of size, type or nature, in the paved or unpaved portion of any driveway, or any location on a lot, or in or on any road right-of-way is prohibited and unlawful. Notwithstanding the foregoing, a temporary moving and/or storage structure may be placed on the paved driveway portion of a parcel in conjunction with a bona fide move to or from the parcel resulting from a change in occupancy provided that, in no event, may the moving and/or storage structure remain on the premises for a period exceeding seven consecutive days. Only one placement of such a structure may occur on a parcel during each calendar year absent written proof being provided in advance to the Development Director or his/her designee that a bona fide additional move will occur during the same calendar year relative to the same premises. The Development Director or his/her designee may extend the maximum duration to 30 days if the temporary structure is being used in conjunction with a bona fide home remodeling project associated with an active building permit or other evidence requested by the Development Director.
